Blackburg Wedding.
The Blackburg Baptist Church was the scene of a beautiful wedding Wednesday night, June 26, at 8 o'clock, when Miss Mary Ann Matthews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel O. Matthews, was married to Frank Lehigh Roberson, of Farmville, a member of the faculty of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute. Church decorations were in green and white, ferns and potted plants banking the altar and choir loft, with clusters of white gladioli hanging with the green. Candles on the altar were lighted just before the ceremony, the latter according to the ritual of the Episcopal Church, and read by Rev. Maxwell Roberson, of Millwood, a brother of the groom. The bride, in a gown of white chiffon over mesaline, and the latter white chiffon over mesaline. Both carried clusters of white sweet peas, tied with white satin ribbon.

The bride entered with her best man, meeting the groom and his father at the church. Her wedding dress was of white chiffon and Irish point lace over mesaline, and her veil was caught with real orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Roberson left Blackburg by motor car to begin their wedding journey, that will include a stay of several days on a camp in Southwest Virginia, and a visit to relatives in Farmville. In the summer they will go to New York and spend next winter at Columbia University. Mr. Roberson having a year's leave of absence from the Virginia

AGED MAN FOUND DEAD.
Police Looking for Negroes Who Was Seen at Lake His House.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Hampton, Va., July 5.—Michael J. Garland, seventy-two years old, a retired sergeant of marines in the United States Navy, was found dead in his home in District Street, Thursday morning. The police are looking for Virginia Thomas, a negro, who was seen to leave the Garland home Wednesday night about 9 o'clock. A check for $49 was received by Garland Wednesday, but the officers failed to find any money in his home. His little grandson, Joseph Gately, ran to the house to ask the old man for money to purchase fireworks, when he found the grandfather lying dead on his bed. The officers have failed to find any foot play signs although it is admitted that Garland may have died from being doped.

About two years ago Garland's son, M. J. Garland, Jr., murdered Jessie Banks, a young negro, in the same house, and is now serving a term of eighteen years in the Richmond penitentiary.

RAPID PROGRESS IN ALLEN TRIAL

Several Witnesses Examined, but Few New Facts Are Brought Out.

SEEK TO PROVE CONSPIRACY

Evidence for Commonwealth Excepted To by Counsel for Defense.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Wynethville, Va., July 5.—On the fourth day of the trial of Claude Allen for the murder of Commonwealth's Attorney Foster, the first witness for the Commonwealth was E. B. Weddie. His examination was very brief. The first of his evidence was that Floyd Allen told the witness that if he was convicted he would kill Foster before leaving.

On cross-examination it was shown that the witness had bought a repeating revolver for $100 on special order. The witness, Isaac Martin, testified as to conversations with Floyd Allen regarding his trial, in which he told the witness he could not get a fair trial in Carroll county, and said he would compromise and pay, but if sent to the penitentiary they would have to make a box for him.

Sidney Sprucker testified that on the evening before the verdict was rendered, while the jury was out, Claude Allen came up to his father and asked to feel his pulse. After feeling it he said, "It is beating regular." Floyd Allen asked if the boys were all ready. This evidence was intended as a circumstance pointing to conspiracy between the Allenes.

Lowman King testified to the same effect as former witness, as to the action and words of Claude Allen in feeling his father's pulse. Mr. Willis, for the defense, excepted to this testimony, because it was intended to show conspiracy, which issue had been tried and determined at the previous trial of Claude Allen.

Joseph J. Banks, corroborated the statement of Sidney Sprucker, and Lowman King as to what passed between Claude Allen and his father, but was too far away to hear the conversation between them. This witness was examined in former trials. He also testified that Claude and Sidney Allen often occupied a position in the courtroom occupied by them on the day of the shooting.

C. T. Howell, foreman of the jury that tried Floyd Allen and was present at the shooting, testified that he saw the Allenes at the shooting.

REASON FOR DISLIKE OF FRANCIS COUNTS

Quarrel With His Mother Causes Aunt to Help Him as Little as Possible.

BY LA MARQUISE DE PONTENAY.

Francis Counts, whose contest with the Duke of Athol for the dukedom of Oxford, has been dominating the attention of the Committee of Privileges of the House of Lords during the past week, is the latest nephew and principal heir of the late Marquess of Salisbury, through whom he is the Duke of Athol's heir.

On the other hand, the Earl of Henry, the second son of the Duke of Athol, was assigned to Robert Vere, a remote cousin, with the death of whose only child and heir, Aubrey, the dukedom fell into abeyance in 1701. The Duke of Athol claims the dukedom of Oxford by descent on the maternal side from the eighteenth earl, and if he can establish this claim, the Duke of Athol will have no alternative but to reverse the action of his Stuart predecessors on the throne, to deprive Lords Annesborough and Chomondley of the dignity of Lord Great Chamberlain, and to restore it to the Duke of Athol in the person of the Duke of Athol.

While much space has been devoted to describing the contest and punishment of Baron Palmero, who was expelled from the House of Commons at Rome some eighteen months ago, little attention has been accorded to the contest between the Duke of Athol and his mother, the Duchess of Athol, who is a most contemptible individual and who is now shown to have been aware of his wife's infatuation for the Duke of Athol, and to have caused her wealth. She had been rich in her own right, but had spent her money on the Duke of Athol, and her husband's constant demands for money before she fell into the hands of Palmero, who likewise drew her into his net. King George does not like his Chancellor of the Exchequer, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding. King Edward, it may be remembered, was interested in Lloyd-George when he met him at dinner at the house of a mutual friend, and much attracted by his clever conversation, took quite a fancy for him. At the general election of January, 1910, when King Edward was still alive, George, then Prince of Wales, became an almost daily acquaintance with his namesake, a personal acquaintance which was not confined to the House of Commons, but extended to the House of Lords, where he was a member of the House of Commons, and a member of the House of Lords.
